“ To The Family of Linda L. Lassiter Lucas Bey—
THE SPARROW'S SONG—

*A sparrow rose and spread its wings to soar to bigger skies.
The time had come to leave its nest and say its sweet goodbyes.
It took the love within its heart and set for the unknown, carried by the gentle wind as morning sunlight shone.*

Beyond the clouds, it traveled on, then disappeared from view, singing in another place, another stretch of blue.

Although we couldn't hear it, it was there among the breeze...leaving us its music deep inside our memories.
